Accusations spark sheriff's race controversy

BY TRACI BONNEY

Accusations of anonymous mudslinging are heating up a Hancock County sheriff's race that is already ripe with controversy.

Candidate Ray Murphy, who recently. switched from Democrat to Republican, claims that two "anonymous" letters to New Orleans started an investigation about his residency, voter registration and right to work as a Louisiana police officer while running for a Mississippi

A story in the New Orleans Times-Picayune earlier this week said Murphy claims both residency and voter registration in Mississippi and Louisiana.

Murphy refuted both claims, saying his residency and voter registration are in Mississippi only. According to the county circuit clerk's office and the tax assessor/collector's office, Murphy is a Bay St. Louis resident and registered voter.

The residency question brought to light a New. Orleans city requirement that its policemen live in New Orleans.

Murphy said that two factors come into play over that question. The first is that he does maintain an apartment in New Orleans. The second: "While I was gone during Operation Desert Storm, a judge ruled that police officers can live wherever they want and maintain as many residences as they want. He said the whole controversy about his work and sheriff's candidacy started with the mailing of "anonymous" letters to the New Orleans Internal Affairs Department and the Times-Picayune. Murphy claims incumbent sheriff Ronald Peterson mailed the letters because he's afraid of losing the election to Murphy. "He did it to get me fired so he can use that in the campaign," Murphy accused. Peterson denied mailing either letter

That is not the truth. I run a positive campaign on my own qualifications and merits. I do not stoop to such tactics. I've run a positive campaign for three terms; this is my fourth term and I am running a positive campaign this time. around too.

Peterson also pointed out that both Murphy's candidacy and his position with NOPD are common knowledge, and that the letters could have come from almost anywhere.

Gaming study workshop planned for August 1

BY TRACI BONNEY

Bay St. Louis feasibility/ zoning study consultants are expected to meet with 80 to 100 local residents and business owners next month to discuss gaming issues, according to city Zoning Project Manager Jules Lagarde.

Lagarde told the city council Tuesday that he and study consultants Paul Buckhurst and Hawkins Stearn are planning a public workshop meeting for August 1, tentatively set to start at 7 p.m.

Participants will include Buckhurst, Stearn and Lagarde as "participating observers," Mayor Edward Favre and the city council as "disinterested observers" (they will watch and listen, but not actively participate), and three groups of local

One group will consist of 40 registered Bay St. Louis voters, selected at random by the city computer system. The second group will be made up of representatives of interested organizations, including the Hancock County Historical Society. Bay Business Association, Friends of Bay St. Louis, Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce. the Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association, American Legion, Altrusa Club, Exchange Club and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The third group will be about 20 business and civic leaders chosen by Lagarde with input from the city council.

Lagarde said this workshop format will resemble a convention in that residents will be able to have the voters from their wards represent them in the group meetings.

The participants will choose a chairman and spokesman, then split into small groups to discuss various dockside

The board of supervisors heard comments from three agenda requestors during a shorter-than-usual meeting

Richard Patterson requested that the county research the possibility of leasing a 16th Section land from the Hancock County school district in order to build a recreation park near Gulfview Elementary School.

After some discussion of the idea, the board voted to about leasing the land. District 2 Supervisor Robert Peterson, who made the motion, told Patterson, "That's the first step, Richard. We'll have to see how it goes from there.'

Peterson and board president Ronald Cuevas also told Patterson that they would bring .his request before the county park commissioners at their next meeting.
TREE REMOVAL

Col. John Pearson (U.S. Army, ret.) of Augusta, Ga. Pearson, who owns property on Turner Street in Bay St. Louis, told the supervisors about a problem he was encountering with Mississippi Power Company. Pearson said the power company, in its efforts to clear the way for a 13.8 kilovolt transmission line from the company's substation on Old Spanish Trail to Hwy. 90 and out to Port Bienville Industrial Park, wanted to remove 33 pine trees from his

Gov. Ray Mabus declined to call a special session for the 174 members to offer an alternative plan to the one rejected by the U.S. Department of Justice July 2. Officials ruled the proposed plan did not reflect proper representation for blacks, and failed to create enough blackmajority districts.

Following a poll of some 45 legislators on the prospect of a productive special session, Mabus decided against the idea, finding the members unable to resolve differences. Nine black Mississippians filed suit June 28 in U. S. District Court in Jackson, citing the Legislature's failure to afford blacks an opportunity to increase their numbers in the 87 percent-white

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I, along with Pat Cucullu, Dick Stamm and staffer Katie Lambert spent a very interesting morning last Saturday at the Welcome Center on Interstate 10.

Dick had setup a small display of items from Nadic Arts, his Bay St. Louis family enterprise which drew a lot of praises.

On June the 30, we at The Sea Coast Echo produced our special edition Hancock Today and printed extra copies so we could disptibute some at the Welcome Center. We met some very interesting folks at the Welcome Center. Between the hours of 8 and 11 a.m. there were some 930 registered visitors to the center from across the county and as far away as France.

Pat, Bay St. Louis' volunteer tourism director, sure does a very good job promoting our area's local merchants and was passing our brochures right and left as It did not take Katie and I too long to distribute over 225 copies of the Hancock Today edition.

Dick created a lot of interest with his family's talents and he along with the group was able to get vacationers to detour through our business area.

I feel this is a untapped source for area merchants and would like to commend Pat for organization of the visits at the Welcome Center.

I do feel Pat needs more 'volunteer' merchants to spend three or four hours at the Welcome Center on Saturday mornings.

This could really help our area merchants and it would help our economy, expecially in the summer months, as it seems that a certain percentage of vacationers are looking for things to do and places to go.

By the way, the Welcome Center's staff also enjoys the additional support from the community.

The Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club Kids Fishing Rodeo is scheduled for Saturday, August 3.

Youngsters may want to have their parents mark their calendars for this big kids event. Members of the Sportsman's Club are busy getting awards and prizes lined up for the free kids fishing rodeo. Club members are seeking assistance from merchants who would like to donate a prize.

Shorty Karl is rodeo chairman, 467-2602; and Sam Perniciaro Jr., president, can be reached at 467-5324 for those who may want to contact them.

This will be the seventh rodeo sponsored by the club, and the last one in 1989 drew over 350 boys and girls ages 13 and under.

Pre-registration forms are available at Sam's Auto Service, Bay St. Louis.

Boys and girls, now is the time to check that fishing tackle and get it ready for August 3.

See Mississippi first

When taking your vacation this summer, visit Mississippi's National Parks first.

There are seven national sites in the state which include three parks, two battlefields, one parkway and one scenic trail.

Vicksburg National Military Park is Mississippi's first and oldest national park. Estab-lished in 1899, the park is a monument to the 47-day siege of Vicksburg.

Gulf Islands National
Seashore's nearly 74,000 acres were authorized in 1971. The park incorporates the Gulf Coast barrier islands and are accessible only by boat.

Natchez National Historical Park, authorized in 1988, is at our of the South's once wealthiest city before the height of the War Between the States. The park includes one of the nation's best preserved collections of antebellum homes and the Melrose planter's plantation.

The state's two national "roads" both bear the name of Natchez.

Authorized in 1935, the Natchez Trace Parkway is 445 miles long (415 miles of paved highway) and stretches from Nashville to Natchez.

The Natchez Trace National Scenic Trail, which was authorized in 1983, is made of various horse and hiking paths which run parallel and are built on the grounds surrounding the parkway.

Both of the state's national battlefields are located in the Tupelo area and were established in 1929.

Brices Crossroads National Battlefield marks one of the most extraordinary battles of the Western Theater during the War Between the States. The battle was fought on June 10, Tupleo National Battlefield is the site of fighting over the railroad link which supplied Maj. Gen. William T. Sherman with goods for his march on Atlanta. The battle was fought on July 13-14, 1864. Currently, I have legislation pending to place one more Mississippi battlefield, Corinth Battlefield, on the National Park's list. This May, the battlefield was dedicated as a National Historic Landmark which is the first step toward national park status.

We will continue to work on having Corinth named a nation-

Senate approves $17 million for south Mississippi water projects

U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor commended the U.S. Senate for its concurrence with South Mississippi water projects included in the Energy and Water Appro-priations Bill which passed the House of Representatives in May. The Senate passed the Appropriations measure last night, approving the levels of funding for the projects.

South Mississippi will receive $17,793,000 in funds and benefit from eight water and annual maintenance projects. The legislation contained the following provisions:

Widening and deepening of the Gulfport Harbor. This $6 million project to deepen the channel to its desired 36 feet is expected to create an additional 1,600 jobs within the next five years, double commerce at the port, and generate an additional $47 million in revenue. Currently, the economic benefits of the port are estimated to be $75 million and it provides jobs for 2,800 Mississippians.

* The Gulfport Harbor also received $2,470,000 million in annual maintenance.

* Bonnet Carre Freshwater Diversion Project. This $53 million project ($3.1 million in 1992) that will divert freshwater from the Mississippi River into the Mississippi Sound is expected to increase oyster production by 2 million pounds a year. "At this year's market prices, that is a $15 billion boost to our economy," Taylor said:

* Wolf River. A $300,000 appropriation to provide preengineering design for a project to dredge Pass Christian's Bayou Portage Channel to a desired 8-foot depth and 100-foot width.

* Biloxi Harbor. This $627,000 annual maintenance project that will dredge the west approach channel of the harbor. * Pearl River. A $145,000 of funding for the water projects," Taylor said. "These programs will strengthen the economy, create jobs and help to revitalize the crucial South Mississippi seafood industry."

Taylor praised his colleagues in the Mississippi delegation for their work in securing the needed funds.

"After explaining the great need for these project to Chairman Whitten and Chairman Tom Bevill, they responded, Taylor said. "I appreciate their efforts as well as those of Senators Cochran and Lott to leave the language intact in the Senate version of the bill."

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Jack Reed could be elected state governor

Here's one prediction about the next governor of Mississippi: I'm not at all certain who it's going to be, but I have a pretty good idea of who would have been elected, if only he had decided to run.

His name is Jack Reed of

I can't recall in the four decades of covering Mississippi politics a time when the political climate appeared to be more favorable than it is this year for one man to have the governor's office virtually within his grasp by just putting his name on the

And the man is Jack Reed. But as every Mississippian knows, the 66-year-old Tupelo businessman and statewide civic and education leader, who narrowly lost to Ray Mabus in a monumental bid for governor in 1987 as a political novice, is not running for governor in 1991, and almost certainly not ever again,

Reed likely will go down in state political history as a compellingly unique figure—a classic "non-politician" who was widely admired by the people, but was not handed the state's highest office when they had a chance to elect him.

What Reed brought to the gubernatorial arena in 1987—wisdom, maturity, stability, credibility, a natural ability to relate to people, genuineness, a keen understanding of governance, all with charming wit and humor-is what Mississippians seem to be desperately seeking now as they prepare to pick their next governor.

The voters by a very close margin decided four years ago to give the job to Mabus, then a 39-year-old baby boomer who intriguingly promised to at last get Mississippi off the bottom of the economic and educational ladder, rather mature Reed.

Mabus represented a risk that the people were willing to take and he enunciated a vision for upward movement of the state which was rather exciting, if he could successfully pull it

For his first year or so in office, the people and that hardto-move institution known as the Mississippi Legislature, showed a willingness to give Mabus a chance to prove that his leadership even as they self-promotion and lack of ability to relate on a personal basis. nor, but chose not to.

Now after three and a half years in office, Mabus' leadership capacity and maturity are open to widespread criticism because the vision he offered: originally has brought only limited results.

His record has been tarnished by a massive breakdown between him and the Legislature over dealing with the state's deep fiscal problems, implementing his highly-touted educational reforms and moving on several other fronts.

Obviously a lot of voters are rethinking their decision of picking Mabus over Reed four years ago and wish they had the chance to choose between the two again. Of course, that chance won't come.

Who, in the absence of a Jack-Reed, can step into the seeming leadership vacuum and capitalize on Mabus' vulnerability?

Wayne Dowdy, the lone Mabus foe on the Democratic side, is campaigning primarily on the fact that he's "not Ray Mabus" and that seems to be all that a lot of voters need to know at the moment in order to support him.

The question is how far will that carry Dowdy in the runup to Sept. 17 if he is unconvincing, as he now seems to many voters, that he can lead where Mabus has failed, namely in moving the Legislature.

Certainly a lot of Mississippians believe that the Legislature is a large part of the state's problems and they will be skeptical if Dowdy starts talking too much about "working with" the Legislature.

At first it appeared that the Republicans would pose no threat to Mabus or Dowdy with out Reed as their standard bearer. But as recent polling figures indicate, State Auditor Pete Johnson, assuming that he wins the GOP primary, could be a formidable antagonist to any Democrat.

In tribute to Reed, however, it must be remembered that none of the three GOP hopefuls—Johnson, Kirk For-dice or Bobby Clanton, would have been in the race if Reed had decided to run.

As for Reed, he said last eek, "I have no regrets about my decision... I felt I was answering the call of duty four years ago, and I'm glad I did."

Now it may well be written that Jack Reed is the only Misgrew increasingly less enthu-siastic about his penchant for sissippian in modern history who would have become gover-

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Cochran introduces agriculture disaster relief bill

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran introduced legislation recently to provide federal disaster assistance to farmers who have suffered crop losses due to adverse weather conditions of the past two years.

Cochran, a senior member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said the Agriculture Disaster Assistance Act of 1991 addresses an emergency situation in the American farm community.

"Thousands of farm families throughout the country have been adversely affected by devastating crop losses due to drought, flood and freeze damage during 1990 and the current growing season," he said.
"It is imperative that we assist these farmers who have suffered such great losses due to conditions beyond their control."

The bill directs the Secretary of Agriculture to provide disaster assistance in the form of direct payments to eligible producers of all 1990 and 1991 crops that were prevented from planting or that have experienced reduced yields due to damaging weather conditions.

Cochrun noted that the bill authorizes use of funds from the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide disaster assistance if the President designates that an emergency exists. That provision was included to ensure compliance with 1990 budget measures, he said. Principal provisions of the bill are as follows:

* For 1990 crop losses: Producers who have had losses to their 1930 crops may elect to obtain benefits under the Emergency Crop Loss Assistance provisions of the 1990 Farm Bill.

* For 1991 crop losses: Program crop participants will retain their advance deficiency payment on up to 35 percent of normal production on maximum payment acres.

According to Rep. J. P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis, the problem lies in the Delta area, where the legislators steadfastly refuse to alter their turf for fear of losing constituents.

Four groups are presently working of alternative redistricting plans, two House and two Senate groups, according to Compretta.

"I am urging leaders in the House to resolve this matter quickly, to avoid additional costs and delays," he said, although he is not optimistic that an existing plan will be adopted.

"The delay will cause problems with absentee ballots and for the election commissioners, said Compretta.

The redrawing of district lines is mandated every 10 years following the U.S. Census to reflect shifts in population.

In the days of the California Gold Rush of long ago, fresh lemons were so prized that they sermed almost as precious as the gold itself; and many a "Forty-Niner" paid a dollar for just one lemon!

Lemons, like just about everything else these days, aren't cheap, but they're still well worth their price in sunshine and taste, if not in gold, in the success of many a dish, er as an essential flavor accent or as a colorful garnish.

For instance, I always add a teaspoonful of lemon juice to rice as it cooks, to give it that wr "ness," the same amount of lemon juice helps keep cauliflower or potatoes or artichokes from discoloring. I also add a dash of juice to the batters for coating chicken, shrimp and chicken and such for frying.

Lemon butter is tasty with vegetables, such as broccoli, spinach, and green beans. Just melt a quarter of a cup, or less, of butter or margarine, add a generous teaspoonful of lemon juice, and a teaspoonful or so of chopped green onions and parsley (fresh, of course). Warm a bit, and mix with the cooked, seasoned vegetables just before serving Slices of lemon are not only decorative atop broiled fish or chicken, they also add a tangy taste to the dish as it cooks. They marry well also with pork or veal chops or slices as well.

A flavorful sauce is that wonderful "Avgolemono" - egg and lemon sauce—so beloved of Greek cookery, delicious with so many dishes, from cubes of lamb or chicken to chunks of celery-for you have discovered, haven't you, that celery is not just for crunching from the appetizer tray, or for seasoning and so forth, haven't you? For a "different" celery dish, here's: SELINO AVGOLEMONO

1 stalk (several ribs) celery 1 large onion, chopped 1/4 cup butter or margarine

Salt, pepper to taste 2 cups chicken stock (or you may use chicken granules or cubes and water; reduce salt in recipe)

2 egg yolks

Juice of lemon Wash and "de-string" the celery and top it (saving the leaves. for fresh seasonings or for drying) and cut into approximately 2-inch lengths (no need to use a ruler!) Saute the onions in butter until golden, add the celery, stock, salt and pepper and simmer for 20 minutes, or a few minutes more, depending upon the tenderness, or lack of it, of the celery. Meanwhile, beat the eggs until light-colored, and slowly dribble in the lemon juice, continuing to beat. It use a wire whisk). Slowly stir into this a little of the hot stock or bouillon, continuing to beat. Again, slowly stir in the remaining stock, cover and let stand for a few minutes off the fire. (4 servings as a side dish).

If you, like so many of us, must skip or cut down on salt, just add a bit more lemon. I topped broiled chicken breasts with the egg-lemon-celery sauce the other day—delicious! (Copyright, 1991, Katharine Accompanied by Alumni Association director Steve Grafton. Zacharias is turning to the public to solicit imput as to how the university can best serve the state while surviving "leaner" times. MSU, with other colleges and schools, has felt the pinch from decreased state funding. What the president would like to see is a "message of hope," that yes, times may be tough now, but a commitment exists to excellence in education.

The discouraging thing is, we are not getting that message from the state," he said. Faculty members are constantly being wooed away by more lucrative careers in the private sector, while the brightest graduates find starting salaries to be higher than those of the professors who taught

"A chemical engineer might start at $40,000. That is well above the average salary for a professor," said Zacharias. "Our faculty would like the opportunity to carry on research to help the state's economy, and to continue to educate men and women: "They will stay, if there is a.

degree of hope."
The MSU National Engineering Center reflects the respect for the university's research capability in that field, evidenced by the National Science Foundation's $12 million funding pledge for research and education over the next five Director Dr. Joe Thompson, a Grenada native, could leave tomorrow but for his loyalty to the state and to the university, said Zacharias. "He has made a commitment to make a difference." In the field of aerospace engineering, Zacharias points with pride to the fact that Honda Corporation selected Mississippi State to conduct a major research program. "They have $6 million invested in the program."

Again, the demand for experts . Legislature that is supportive of in the private sector threatens . education at all levels. to lure faculty members.

"Education lost a great friend with the retirement of Rep. Jim.

He contended that the company's conduct in dealing with him and other property owners on Turner Street was unethical and secretive. "It was like pulling teeth to get answers from them," he commented more than once.

He also said that although the power company offered him money for the trees to be removed, he found out that no other property owners along the street had been offered anything for their trees.

Pearson explained that his property has no residence on it, but is mostly trees. He said he has invested quite a bit of money into maintaining the

He claimed that installing such a high-power transmission line along Turner Street at a height that requires the removal of trees will cause property values to drop. "No one will want to buy property to build on, because who wants to build a house with (the transmission wire) above their driveway?"

He said another factor that morty loss is the fact that the air above Turner Street "is becoming a maze of

He told the board he knew they couldn't do anything about the situation, but he wanted them to know what was happening. "If this keeps up, the area won't grow. That means the taxes that should go to the county and the city won't be generated." Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise suggested that Pearson

sioner George Watson. Necaise said the Public Service Commission has the authority to handle such matters.

UNIT SYSTEM COMPLAINTS

Martin DeSalvo of the Bayou Phillips community commented on what he saw as the deficiencies of the unit system, stating repeatedly that the county employees needed to work together better.

DeSalvo said he had "picked up some new words" recently. He said these "words" had to do with reasons why county projects weren't completed after they were started, and included such things as: "The machines are broken"; "There isn't enough money"; "It's been too wet"; "There's not enough manpower."

He compared a county project to washing a car, saying that if he were going to wash a car the way the county handles projects, he would wash the front half Monday and the back half Wednesday, then would need to wash the car again Thursday.

DeSalvo then said he would wash the whole car in one day so he wouldn't have to do it again.

Cuevas countered, asking what DeSalvo would do if the car washing took more than one person. When DeSalvo said he would hire someone, Cuevas asked him how he would do that if he didn't have the money.

DeSalvo continued to maintain for several minutes that county officials and employees should have better communicamentioned the need for county recognition of community residents who went out of their way to help maintain their neighborhoods.

After about 15 minutes of comment and dialogue between DeSalvo and the supervisors, Cuevas told DeSalvo they appreciated his comments but. had to continue the meeting in order to finish by 11, when the board had another appointment.

The board also heard from Bay St. Louis clerk of council Mike Cuevas, who requested and received a pledge for county. assistance through the Chamber of Commerce for a county-wide Desert Storm troops homecoming parade and party either at the end of July or August 11.

Other business addressed included accepting the resignation of county ranger Keith Dedeaux, effective July 12; approving the July payroll; authorizing publication of notices concerning the county budget hearing August 15 at 10 a.m.; adopting real and personal tax rolls; adopting the final order of the motor vehicle assessment schedule; and advertising for six-month culvert contract bids.

The board adjourned to August 5, 9 a.m.

"It was scary. "Every night the sirens. would go off and everyone would run for cover. "We were sure that we were going to be gassed." Arrowood produced a gas mask for the boys to try on and touch, bringing them a little closer in understanding of what he was talking about.

Though chemical warfare never became a reality during the Persian War, the threat of Irag's ability to do so was a constant worry among everyonemilitary and civilians alike-Arrowood added.

We were near an air field where a lot of F-15 fighter planes were kept; so following the sounding of the air raid sirens, a hugh swoosh could be heard as the Patriot missles were launched to intercept the approaching scuds.

You could hear the two missles collide and see the rain of debris falling over everything

"After an attack we would go. up on the roof of the building and there would be pieces of the two missles everywhere.

"After a week of that every night, we were ready to go.

Arrowood described how the tanks are loaded onto large transport vehicles (trucks) and driven to their next destination, 200 miles northwest along the Saudi-Iraq border.

"It's not like the days of World War II where the men walked along with the tanks." "It took us about 14 hours to tnavelatonour next position

Then we waited." ON THE BORDER

He said the Iraqis had dug two big sand walls about 12-feet deep and filled with oil along the 200-mile stretch of border where the American and U.N.

"They (Iraq) had intended to set fire to the oil should we try to

The plan, Arrowood said, was for the 82nd Airborne division to ride in trucks north into Iraq and stop just outside of Baghdad. It was thought that the Iraqi Republican Guard, which was in and around Kuwait to the east, would think Baghdad was being attacked and would cross west to her rescue.

Then the three divisions, two American and one British, advancing from along the border, could move north meeting with and surprising the Iraqis as they crossed through the Tigris and Euphrates Valley. We began to advance on the morning of January 24. "Paths were cut into the sand walls and we crossed into Iraq and moved into formation."

"There are 60 tanks in a battalion and three to five battalions in a division. The tanks form a V-shape with a football field of space between each. Support vehicles travel towards the center and to the back of the V-shape.

"There were maybe 1,000 lead tanks across, points, moving in one long line up into Iraq.

Bay girls seek state title

Bay St. Louis Senior League All Star girls team, undefeated in tourney play, will be vying for the state championship tonight at 7:30 at McDonald Field in Bay St. Louis.

The tournament has been going on all week-in Bay St. Louis, with toams from Lyman, Central Harrison, Bay St. Louis and Woolmarket.

In opening action Monday night, Central Harrison defeated Lyman 27-3. Winning pitcher was Central Harrison's Tabitha Moran, allowing two hits. Tanya Parker stood out with seven RBIs and Cindy Walley with five.

The second game was between Bay St. Louis and Woolmarket with Bay St. Louis prevailing 27-3. Tracy Collins, pitcher for Bay St. Louis, pitched a one-hitter while allowing only two walks from a total of 114 pitches.

Marion Labat topped off the visits to the plate by knocking in six RBIs with Dee Burton close behind with five RBIs. Brandi Favre and Mary Penrose both stole five bases each.

The second night saw Bay St. Louis defeat Central Harrison 15-12. Mary Penrose was the winning pitcher, allowing eight hits and eight walks.

Dee Burton brought in four runs for Bay St. Louis, while Tabitah Moran brought in three for Central Harrison. In the second game Tuesday, Woolmarket defeated Lyman 27-14, with Shannon Wood the winning pitcher and hitting in the most RBIs—six.

The 9-10-year-old All Stars from Bay St. Louis and Central Harrison will also be playing an exhibition game tonight, beginning at 6.

The public is invited to come and watch the games.

Barnes, Kidd are teammates on South squad

BY JANET MCQUEEN Last year Scott Barnes and Trey Kidd faced off in the "soccer game of the year," when cross-town rivals Bay High School and St. Stanislaus met.

Scott Barnes and Trey Kidd

As captains of their respec-tive teams, Barnes and Kidd maintain an on-the-field rivalry and an off-the-field friendship. Saturday, the two will wear the same color shirt in the ninth annual Coca-Cola All-Star Soccer game at Robinson-Hale Stadium in Clinton.

They were nominated for the squad, composed of 32 players statewide, by their respective coaches, Bay High's Kathy Edwards and St. Stanislaus' Mick Quinlan.

Both are 1991 graduates, and have played soccer since kindergarten. Both play the left wing position; Barnes also plays center halfback.

Kidd, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kidd of Waveland, began playing 12 years ago in the Bay Area Youth Soccer program. In years since, he has played on Select teams in Slidell and Gulfport and has twice been a member of state championship teams-coached by Doug Stovall in 1986 and Paul Montjoy in 1987. Kidd was selected to the all-district team four times at St. Stanislaus. He plans to attend college in the fall. Barnes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Barnes of Waveland. He is a 14-year soccer veteran, eight of those in the Bay Area Youth Soccer program.

He has been on state championship teams in Louisiana and Mississippi (coached by Chip Merrigan) and has played on Select teams in Slidell and Gulfport.

Barnes will attend Pearl River Community College in the fall, where he hopes to play baseball. He was offered a soccer scholarship to Mobile

FISHIN Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

New speckled trout regs in effect soon

It's time to go fishin' y'all. When I went quick-like to check out some strange lights floating down Bayou Caddy at night last week I spied this strange apparition, "sight,"

Down the bayou was floating his one-eyed monster with an Indian next to the eye. The Indian had a bow and arrow with a strange looking twopronged arrow head on the arrow. When I got the courage to look closer, I discovered the strange creature was a flat boat with a flood light mounted on a pipe attached to the front of the boat. The light was powered by a small electric generator. The human in the boat, I think he was human, was called Half-Chief "He Who Shoots Arrows at Night" Dillon Shilg. Half-Chief told me that he shot one large sheepshead, a doormat size flounder and saw too many illegal redfish to count.

This appears to be a new and interesting way to spend a few hours on the water. The days are starting to become so hot lately that the scales are melting off of alligator tails.

Night time fishing with a bow and arrow not only presents a new and different challenge but has the added benefit of being

Night bow fishing in a boat has two additional benefits. First, the boat allows you enough room to carry all th rules and regulations BMR has imposed upon sportfishermen. Secondly, you have a good chance of judging the size of your fish before you catch him (her). Would love to hear from anyone trying this method of fishing. There are even more strange lights at night in the shallow water next to the seawall. These people are armed and dangerous as they are carrying 'spears."

They tell me that they are looking for flounder to spear. A couple of points to remember about floundering. The best time seems to be on an incoming tide, and the best bait seems to be an old pair of "smelly" tennis

Even though this is a family sport it is not true that the more noise and splashing that you make the more flounder you will see. Try going real slow through the water like a turtle. It is a good idea to only walk in water that is deep enough to see the bottom.

This allows you to see the flounder and make sure he is not a stingray. If you walk into water that is over your head it has a tendency to put your lantern out and this makes it hard to see at night.

west winds of the past week have turned the areas around Pearl River into instant coffee. There have been huge catches of hard-head catfish in this area but very few flounder, redfish and trout.

Good news from the west. The water is turning salty and is starting to clear up.

LaFrance Fish Camp reports a supply of live shrimp for those anglers that want to try Half-Moon and Grassy Islands.

Would like to remind everyone that the new regulations on speckled trout go into effect on July 25. You will no longer be able to keep 5 undersize (under 14 inches) trout in your limit of 25. I realize that a trout over 14 inches is as rare as a "giant Bluefin Tunashark" in the shallow water that most of you fish, but the law is the law.

You should be aware that the group calling itself Save Our Sportfishing has a petition that has been signed by in excess of 1,000 sportfishermen that calls for BMR to cease and desist (that means stop) from enforcing this ordinance.

This petition will go to the Governor, Attorney General and BMR this week. They will
